

Black Lips

"Almost Good Enough"

Visit "Almost Good Enough" on MotoLyrics.com

Want to tell you what I am all about, spend the night with you shut the whole world out Carve a corner of the universe for us, some sand a few trees would be enough Wish you would just tell me your name

Want to hear why you talk to yourself, cover your eyes and tell me why you make me melt Hold you close and just listen to the rain, we agree that everyone's insane
Wish we could just skip ahead to that day

And all this time, blinded by my own disguise, I couldn't see ahead far enough Yeah those elephants make it tough
But I can say, today's a brand new day and, I think it won't be that rough, better than almost good enough

Want to sit with you underneath the sun, kiss the air with our words and write a song Clear our heads so all we have to do is play, watch the day just waste itself away Wish we could just skip ahead to that state

Want to hope that everything will be alright, when I tell you about all I got inside Just a few years might take some time, but every moment you will be on my mind
Wish we could just skip ahead to that day

And all this time, blinded by my own disguise, I
couldn't see ahead far enough Yeah I was just making it up
But I can say, today's a brand new day and, I think it won't be that rough, better than almost good Yes I can say, today's a brand new day and, I think it won't be that rough, better than almost good enough

Visit Black Lips page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.
