No one's asking to go dancing it's not like that anymore It's romantic if they mean it when they shut your fingers in the door
It's a gory sort of story that's been told a hundred times before
It gets tricky don't be picky if the slipper fits you wear it where

How many tips can i take home tonight without them getting mad
How many stitches do you think it takes to fix a cut that bad
How many minutes until midnight and you get your eyesight back

Not to knock it i've been off it never moving very much at once It's been awkward i still offer it when it's that time of Other girls shower but i give out flowers
To curious strangers who throw dollars at my feet

How many crimes can i try spotting dry before it leaves a stain
How many times say that i love you til it doesn't mean a thing
How many fittings must i sit through with my big feet blistering
How many times until it strips me and my big mouth strikes again

I'm not asking to go dancing i'm not that dumb anymore It's exhausting to keep smiling when your toes are bleeding on the floor
It's a gory sort of story that's been told a hundred times
Don't be sorry just ignore me because honestly I'm too sore from fitting exactly to ride into setting suns aching to Stand on my own two feet

How many wishes do i still have left to fix the way it ends

How many princes do you think It takes to put a girl like this back together again
How many instances can you point out where i was less than kind How many happy endings do you need to change your fucking mind
And how much time do we have left before it's midnight and
You see that i was never the right size?
