

Dropping Daylight

"Run Away"

Visit "Run Away" on MotoLyrics.com

It's cold outside today
The summer air has had it's time
It's left and gone away
Gone away

And the streets are paved with gold
But no one walks upon them
The cities just too old
The night becomes familiar
An average day begins and ends
Without ever being lived
And leaves us alone

A hundred times removed
A thousand miles too far
To hear the lonely scars inside
This room

Well should we act on faith
Throw consequence to the wind
It's a better chance to take
That let it just settle here
'Cause when life gets complicated
When every day begins and ends
Without ever being lived
Makes me say

Chorus
Run away
And give yourself up
To a better day
Run away
Maybe you and I
Will find a way
Run away
And give yourself up
To a better day
Uh huh
Oooo Yeah

Well should we act on faith

Throw consequence to the wind
It's a better chance to take
That let it just settle here
'Cause when life gets complicated
When every day begins and ends
Without ever being lived

Run away
And give yourself up
To a better day
Run away
Maybe you and I
Will find a way
Run away
And give yourself up
To a better day
With me
Yeah, yeah, oooo

So here's your holiday
Falling backwards
Toward the distant sun
Breathing life
'Till the day is gone
Come on

Run away
And give yourself back
To a better day
Run away
And give yourself up
To a better day
Run away
Maybe you and I
Will find a way
Run away
And give yourself up
To a better day
With me
No no no no
Yeah yeah
Yeah
Oooo

It's cold outside today

Visit Dropping Daylight page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.