somehow the atmosphere has changed I feel it's time to rearrange, ('cause) the flood is coming in please swear none of our dreams will subside and promise you'll be by my side when the breakers come to crush

so rest, yield what's left behind the movements of your mind can never change your fate

'cause we can't stop the tide as it's bringin' in our dykes, while time is running through our hands like grains of sand
we're slowly gettin' old, can't stop the tide now that that the grapes of wrath are here but though you tell me: 'have no fear' when the flood is coming in

please save one of your fleeting smiles for me and make believe you will be here when the breakers come to crush we live, live until we're worn and try to be as one but how can we succeed if we can't change the ...

I welcome the naught to hollow out my derelict eyes I'm fading away like I've never been around we can't stop the tide as it's bringin' in our dykes, while time is running through our hands like grains of

sand
we're slowly gettin' old, can't stop the tide
