There was a time when we were young and true

We used to have so many points of view

We used to lie on the ground, kiss in the rain

The world outside kept looking in
You got a job you said it was for me

But somehow things turned out so differently

We never lie on the ground or kiss in the rain

I don't wanna spend another day
I don't wanna be here without you another day
The kitchen clock is hitting half past three
Outside the world is looking happy

Funny how we can change, sunshine to rain

I don't wanna spend another day
I don't wanna be here without you another day
There was a time when we were young and true

We never do the things we used to do

Funny how we can change, love into pain

I don't wanna spend another day
I don't wanna be here without you another day
