She's like a one eyed version of the truth
So look with two eyes when you see her coming down

You think you can't decide if you should be in love
Who knows what love is, so don't watch her coming down

You step outside and step back in
And chase your own illusion

Something that is far from here
Something you can't see or hear

I really want to be with you, be with you
But I don't feel like you want me t

Every time I see your face

I reach for my reflection

The lines of you I cannot trace
I am marked by my deception

It's everywhere I go
This illusion that I makes my own

Much is left unclear
I am left here with my fear alone

I really want to be with you, be with you
But I don't feel like you want me t
