The bells are, aringing
On mid winter's, night
The moon sets all alone
And once again, i try, aha ahay to sleep before the morning light

Too soon the sun will come acalling, over the hills, in our little town Too soon the snow will start falling, over the world, without a sound While in my room, dreams are afleeting
I close my eyes one more time
All too quickly the dawn is breaking, and i must leave the night behind

The bells are, aringing
On mid winter's, night
The moon sets all alone
And once again, i try, aha ahay to sleep before the
morning light

The bells are, aringing
On mid winter's, night
The moon sets all alone
And once again, i try, aha ahay to sleep before the
morning light

morning light
Before the morning light
Before the morning light
