Can you scream the words I could never hear?
Can you feel the silence begin to tear?

But it just takes so much to make it real
That it hardly matters
But if you could see inside yourself
Your world would shatter

My mama taught me better than that
Don't play with angels
If my lost soul could be given back
It would be fatal

Can you see a world you've never felt?
When you sleep the nightmare becomes yourself

But it just takes so much to make you sick
When your heart's a bullet
But if you could fill some lead in me
You would pass through it

My Mama taught me better than that
Don't play with angels
If my lost soul could be given back
It would be fatal

Your soul keeps lifting away
My world keeps turning
And it brings me down
Yeah, it brings me down

Oh, you're so afflicted
Your love keeps burning
But it brings me down
Yeah, it brings me down

Can you scream the words I could never hear?
When you speak the silence begins to tear

But it just takes so much to make you sick
When your heart's a bullet
But if you could reach the edge in me

You won't break through it

My mama taught me better than that
Don't play with angels
If my lost soul could be given back
It would be fatal
