(Charlie Skarbek / Rick Blaskey)

Duet with Cilla Black

Ooh, hoo
It was back in 'sixty-three
We were young and we were free
Thought the world was really ours for the taking
We had heart and we had soul
Ooh, we lived for rock and roll
And didn't we, didn't we, didn't we do it?

Fashions come and fashions go
We were there so we should know
I sometimes smile when I think of how I looked then
Burning candles at both ends
Hoping time would make amends
And didn't we, didn't we, didn't we do it?

With heart and soul
The world is yours, the stars are too
If you bring out the best in you
With heart and soul
Whatever you've been wantin' to do
Heart and soul will see it through, oh, ho

Now we're older nothing's changed
Just some things are rearranged
But the message is the same as when we started
We're gettin' stronger everyday
Looking back now we can say
Didn't we, didn't we, didn't we do it?, ahh

With heart and soul
The world is yours, the stars are too
If you bring out the best in you
With heart and soul
Whatever you've been wantin' to do
Heart and soul will see it through, ahh
See it through, see it through, ooh, hoo
Ooh, hoo, sing it, sing it, sing it, oh, yeah

With heart and soul
The world is yours, the stars are too
If you bring out the best in you
With heart and soul
Whatever you've been wantin' to do
Heart and soul will see it through

Oh, ho, it will see, will see, will see it through, ooh, hoo
You can see it, you can see it, see it, see it through
You can see it, you can see it
