Every night is a Saturday night
Every day is a beautiful day
Every night is a Saturday night to me
As I walk down life's lonely highway
I have a random thought
My only consolation is that I never will get caught
It's a shame the kind of pain that I inflict, it's sick.
But I wrote my lifetime stories on a brick
Here it comes right now!
I once had a girl in Phoenix by the railroad track
I left that girl in pieces in an Arizona shack
It's a shame, but I'm to blame
That I'll admit that I'm shit
But I know that deep down low you're loving it
