To the Lord's defenders at the last surrender
Is granted passage to the other side
Where he shall cherish in His name those who've perished
And embrace with everlasting life.
To each heart that is tendered at the last surrender
A home is promised with Him to abide Where he shall cherish in His name those who've
perished
And embrace with everlasting life.
And there be redeemed to dwell in fear no more
Free the bondage of this lot world's strifes
Knowing He shall cherish in His name those who've
perished
And embrace with everlasting life.

And there be redeemed to dwell in fear no more
Free the bondage of this lot world's strifes
Knowing He shall cherish in His name those who've
perished
And embrace with everlasting life.
To the Lord's defenders at the last surrender
Is granted passage to the other side
Where he shall cherish in His name those who've
perished
And embrace with everlasting life...
