

Dwight Yoakam "Waiting"

Visit "Waiting" on MotoLyrics.com

Waiting for your world to turn around is less likely to be found

As I watch it moving past

Than any other hope that I might hold that someday you might know

What it's like to slowly drown

Waiting for your world to turn around

Waiting for the thought to cross your mind, 2 hearts might

Be inclined to commit an act that's bold

Or even just be looking for a chance to take advantage of

One glance and live inside it one more time

Waiting for the thought to cross your mind

How long will it be

'Til these blind eyes can finally see

I don't know, time goes so slow

While your love, like a river, flows right by me

How long will it be

'Til these blind eyes can finally see

I don't know, time goes so slow

While your love, like a river, flows right by me

Waiting for your world to turn around is less likely to be found

As I watch it moving past

Than any other hope that I might hold that someday you

Might know what it's like to slowly drown

Waiting for your world to turn around

Visit Dwight Yoakam page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.