This song is obviously a joke directed toward those narrow-minded trendy suburban mall-robots that operate on a high-minded level where Mr. J-Crew and Mr. Sam Goody do not allow them to consider any alternative to their programmed reality.

"Kill your Mother Music" was an accusation hurled frequently during the 1980's and man o man how far we have come since then!

I am not claiming any intelligent revelations through these lyrics, they are just a sarcastic left hook against mainstream radio, which obviously would never play this track.
