I need a man by Eartha Kitt
I need a man who can bring my relief from all the stress and strains of the day with just a tiny stroke

I want a billionaire with a big, big, big, big, yacht who can take me to Monte Carlo

I dont want to be alone where is my baby I dont want to be alone where is my man I spend hours by the phone where is my baby

I chew my fingers to the bone where is my man my list of needs is really quite brief I need a man who can bring my relief

I need a man who can take me and taunt me and make me by the things that I so richly deserve a man who knows what I require as the thing that I desire is there anyone out there who has the nerve?

where is my baby he cant be far look for an ascot a big cigar tell him to find me send his car
to this address

I have to stress
I need him now
I need him now
I need him now

I need him now
