Time it came, It went, It's gone
All this time to sit and think of
All the things I never did for you
And my mistakes, they've taught me well
What am I learning, Cos if you give me
One more chance I'll only let you down
And you're less fucked up than the average girl
You are ... But then you always were
All I know is wrong, but you were right all along
All I know is wrong, but you were right all along
Little late now don't you think
To come over all self defensive
I'll take no blame in anything at all
And I don't really care to be
Picking through this wreckage
Just to see the point which it all went wrong
And you're less fucked up than the average girl
You are ... But then you always were
Yeah the time is a rap for being wrong
For being wrong
Here's a couple of points you missed
From your comprehensive list
Of things I never did for you
All I know is wrong, but you were right all along
