You don't exist
You live only in my head
And some day soon
To the fires of ambition you'll be feed
You will burn and fuel the flame that turns all the hate, where, as a memory you will remain. You will remain I have no remorse for that which is dead, for all that has lived was born in my head I gave you substance, the will to be When I take it back it just returns to me, it just returns to me
This illusion of being is just a facade, reality just a word, truth just a lie There is no reason, no answer, to any question why Your past never existed but the future is clear
When I am gone
You will all disappear Back to the emptiness from whence you came, beyond existence for existence is but a name
The reality and the illusion are one and the same You are all just thoughts caught in my mind for a time
You are just pieces, the whole is mine.
Mine
