

Ed Harcourt

"Something To Live For"

Visit "Something To Live For" on MotoLyrics.com

This is moving like a forest fire
Leaving no part unscathed
Too young to be as jaded as I am
But old enough to feel the strain

I hope that I can hold on to you
The beauty that I'll never match
The never ending open wound
That started from a simple scratch

Oh, to save us from being saved
Before we get too old and waste away
Loves and lovers destined to die, you're

And so through all the loss we've seen
Of friends who sit and think too much
Too fragile for the cold outside
Too proud to say what's on their minds

This is for the broken fools
Whose friends are gone before their time
And if you see me trip and fall
Save me from a swift decline

Oh, to sink beneath the drunken sea
Look in your eyes
When you take the breath from me
There's always something to live for

Visit Ed Harcourt page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.