He meets her at the front door
He can tell she's had a hard day at work
She's been needing him
And he's sure been wantin' her

He touches her with tenderness
Takes her in his arms and takes it slow
What a shame
She can't get that at home

What a shame, she can't get that at home
There's nothing back there but a lonely house
And love ain't all about wood and stone
He satisfies all her needs and wants
What a shame, she can't get that at home

After the lovin'
They lie there and talk for a while
She loves how he listens
And he sure loves to see her smile

He wants to keep her
But he loves her enough to let her go
What a shame
She can't get that at home

What a shame, she can't get that at home
There's nothing back there but a lonely house
And love ain't all about wood and stone
He satisfies all her needs and wants
What a shame, she can't get that at home

He satisfies all her needs and wants
What a shame, she can't get that at home
