Late nights watchin' TV, I never knew you'd turn out to be everything I wanted to be.
Home movies and worthless books, failed attempts and deceptive looks, were all that you ever gave to me.
All nighters and prank phone calls, pointless one liners on the bathroom stalls, mean everything you see,
Cracker Jacks and a stupid prize, bright hair and beautiful eyes, you mean everything to me.

Well on one hand I feel sad for myself, but on the other I feel happy for you,
And I know you should always come first, but I'm torn between the two.
Everything that I did for you was for nothing, but I'd do it all over again
I've got so many things I wish I could have told you, I don't know where to begin.
I just want you to know even though your gone and never coming home,
That I wish you good luck, and I'll try my best to be alright on my own.

Overdose on PCP, sittin' out in that old fort tree, hiding in the woods, but you can still see,
Later nights and shopping carts, computer games we suck at darts, Christmas lights are nice don't you agree?
Overtired moms and feet, walking down my hometown street, mailboxes lookin' real good at three,
New girls and newer cars, this time I'm reachin' for the stars, I'm gonna need my key I guarantee.

Well on one hand I feel sad for myself, but on the other I feel happy for you,
And I know you should always come first, but I'm torn between the two.
Everything that I did for you was for nothing, but I'd do it all over again
I've got so many things I wish I could have told you, I don't know where to begin.
I just want you to know even though your gone and never coming home,

That I wish you good luck, and I'll try my best to be alright on my own.
