When you're sittin' with your honey just as cozy as can be
And you ask her can I kiss you once or twice If she doesn't make you kiss but she quickly answers
yes
That do make it nice

When you take her to a party and the fellows buzz her down
But she holds 'em off and treats some cold as ice
Then she gets you all alone Whispers honey take me home that do make it nice

When you say goodnight and you hold her tight While you're standing at her front door
When you want to stay and she says okay She lets you stay a couple of kisses more man you're livin'

If she doesn't care for diamonds or a lotta fancy things
'Cause she understands you haven't got the price And just being by your side keeps her more than satisfied
That do make it nice

On the night you meet her parents and her daddy shakes your hand
And her mother looks you over once or twice Though the evening's just begun if they start to call you son
That do make it nice

When you wanna pop the question but you're feelin' kinda shy
'Cause you wonder if she'll go for shoes and rice While you're planning everything, she sends out all the invitations Bakes a big wedding cake, gets a preacher and the church
Rents you a wedding suit, and she even buys the ring Ha, ha, ha, that do make it nice
