(Cindy Walker)

On the books this day will be known to all officially
As the day when you left me the day you left me
But my heart could testify that the date is just a lie
For the day has long gone by the day you left me.

You've been here but not really here I know how well I know
You've packed your dreams and left my heart a long long time ago
Though you've just walked out the door and you won't be back anymore
You had left me long before the day you left me.

You had left me long before the day you left me...
