

Eddy Duchin

"Romancing The Stone"

Visit "Romancing The Stone" on MotoLyrics.com

I'm romancing the stone, never leaving your poor heart
alone
Every night and every day gonna love the hurtin' away
I'm romancing the stone, never leaving your poor heart
alone
Every night and every day gonna love the hurtin' away
Tonight, tonight I'm falling where the peaceful waters flow
Where the unicorn's the last one at the water hole
I have found a love so precious, like an emerald so bold
It's a firelight escaping from the jeweller's hold
I'm romancing the stone, never leaving your poor heart
alone
Every night and every day gonna love the hurtin' away
I'm romancing the stone, never leaving your poor heart
alone
Every night and every day gonna love the hurtin' away
Oh and in the heat of rapture when I feel the cold winds blow
Through the broken glass, I'll see at last the sweet desire in you
I will climb up on my pulpit and I'll preach a sermon, you
On the mountain roads, in Harlem, feel my jeweller's hold
I'm romancing the stone, never leaving your poor heart
alone
Every night and every day gonna love the hurtin' away
I'm romancing the stone, never leaving your poor heart
alone
Every night and every day gonna love the hurtin' away

Visit Eddy Duchin page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.