in another car where the Wheels keep on turning & turning & turning & nothing's disturbing the way they go around All your thoughts are in another head your dreams are sleeping in a different bed the force that moves you is a circular breath of life & death going round & round & round The Wheel keeps on turning & turning & turning & nothing's disturbing the way it goes around Maybe you ride a different wave Maybe you catch another ray of the sun that I've just begun to feel back & forth & back & forth around again
