

Edie Brickell

"Tomorrow Comes"

Visit "Tomorrow Comes" on MotoLyrics.com

Sleepy eyes, it's time to rise
It must be well past afternoon
I know you got a wonderful view
I am familiar with the ceiling

But when tomorrow comes
You'll be stepping out that door
But when tomorrow comes
You'll be stepping out that door
For sure

Don't feel bad, the love that you had Just goes to prove that you are able
I know you got a terrible view
I am familiar with the feeling

But when tomorrow comes
You'll be stepping out that door
But when tomorrow comes
You'll be stepping out that door
For sure, for sure, for sure

Not too far from where you are
Red leaves are floating from Sebastian
Everyday they fall away
Bright green is coming back in fashion

And when tomorrow comes
You'll be stepping out that door
But when tomorrow comes
You'll be stepping out that door

Tomorrow comes
You'll be stepping out that door
And when tomorrow comes
You'll be stepping out that door

Visit Edie Brickell page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.