(Love is real EP)

Everybody wants someone to Compare to the last one in the picture
But they never even think of what they're missing
And the last one never seems to leave the picture

Everybody wants something more
Out there in the big world of high business
But they don't go off and throw away their labors
And abandon everything they've worked so hard for

All the evidence in the world
Won't say anything about your conscience
And i don't believe you think of me that highly
And i don't consider this your final offer

You took everything that you had
And left me to sift through all the pieces
And you never even told me what you wanted
You're the last one to explain your own behaviour
