No need for,
Explanations,
This time,
But an eye for an eye,
Just doesn't seem right.
We all fall down, at the first hurdle,
We will learn from our mistakes.

Sing to me one more time,
Touch this tired face of mine,

Sing to me one more time,
Touch this tired face of mine,

I'll pull the wool out of my saw eyes,
And see what was there all along,
Some things last a lifetime,
Well I hope this is one of them.

Sing to me one more time,
Touch this tired face of mine,

Sing to me one more time,
Touch this tired face of mine,

As the sun falls out of the sky,
All that I knew all that I had,
Gone, in the blink of an eye,
The pressure will fall when a storms on its way,
I wanted to tell you,
I wanted to say,
I'm not doing ok.

Sing to me one more time,
Touch this tired face of mine,

Oh sing to me one last time,
Touch this tired face of mine.
