Never get close to the flame because the flame it can burn

Better to not play the game than never to win at your

Better to be on your own than trust a friend might betray

Better not follow a dream - they don't come true

Play to win not scared to lose

Walk the path you choose

Fortune favours the brave

Risking it all again and again

Fortune favours the brave

Fall after fall they climb up again

Ignore the doubt and the fear, traitors to all you believe

Now that you're getting so near, still they just try to

Taking it risk at a time, trying to live every day

Trying to know your own mind, never to care what they say
