We're starting again, like the first time
Each line here, a shift in my thinking
To find out that you're the reason
I'm moving in your direction

Keep on moving, you bring me back
Falling forwards, we're right on track
Even if I, change my mind
In a little while, we realign and get back up again

This static while communicating
Through thoughtfields that are constantly changing
To find out that you're the reason
I'm moving in your direction

Starting again like the first time
(its) constantly changing
You come along while you can, you alone
You come along while you can, you alone again
