I remember when things just weren't the same
My life went up in smoke
The end came crashing down on me
Just when I found the piece of sympathy
You turned your back
You walked away after the eulogy

Can I touch your lips?
Feel the motion of your kiss?

I remember when I first saw your face
You took my breath away and left without a trace
So here I stand empty handed point of view
I took some time
The search is up and I found you

Can I touch your lips?
Feel the motion of your kiss?

Where did you go?
Where did you go?

It's not the distance keeping you from seeing me
It ain't the weather changing minds or changing dreams
It's not the sight of you when I stepped off the plane
I think that things will be much better off this way

And when my seasons change, I might have to pray for rain
Now that I've found you, you're not leaving me
Please stay right by my side, I'll give you everything
There she goes, there she goes with me
Another lonely winter, I don't think we'll see

Where did you go?
Where did you go?
Where did you go?
