It's a miracle that I'm still young, it's a miracle that I'm still young.

Will you remember to bring me flowers
When we're together, though we're just friends?

There's a picture that hangs upon my bedroom wall
And it's there to remind me that you really didn't care at all.

Boy! You know there's a sunset at the beach
And you always took me there, and I wonder as I walk.

Will you remember to bring me flowers
When we're together, though we're just friends?

When I wake up to a stranger sleeping in my bed
'cause
It makes me forget there's an ocean running through my head.
Well, it seems like I always think of you
And forever, the colors around my heart start falling apart.

Well, it was so right but you made it so trite
The way you played with my love.
You gave me fears and had me in tears
It's a miracle that I'm still young.
I made a bad trip, it takes two fools to tango, too
But my sojourn makes me yearn
For something that, I think, I found in you.

I never thought that you'd take away what was yours
Could make you feel like a rebel who felt a cause
'Cause whenever the sun sets at the beach
And forever, the colors around my heart start falling apart.

Will you, will you... Will you remember to bring me flowers

When we're together, though we're just friends?
Though we're just friends?
Will you remember to give me kisses when we're
together
Though we're just friends?

Will you remember to bring me flowers when we're
together
Though we're just friends, though we're just friends?
Will you remember to give me kisses when we're
together
Though we're just friends?
