"Widow"

all my time i spent the widow said as she bent giving what meant everything and all my company are memories whispering down by the forest
down by the forest
all the time in the world is yours, she said as she went with her thoughts on her dreams i hardly knew you yet i packed all i valued and followed like dust in the wind
can you give me sanctuary
when the babbling brook runs dry?
can you give me understanding
to try?
what about your brothers and all you had for lovers? did they blow away like candles in the night?

i saw you begging
on the day of the wedding she don't wander by herself where are your sons and your daughters?
runs dry?
to try?
and all my company are memories whispering
down by the forest
down by the forest
