If it starts to feel, then we'll just shut it off again
We won't convince the jury, we're guilty till we die
If it starts to sing, reach in remove the sirens
This respirator keeps a countdown to our cancellation

If it starts to bleed, do not adjust the contrast
Doctor, deliver us, heaven holds no truth
For dreamers like you and I

Remember the day they cut our thoughts
We learned to smile from our necks
This is the breach of etiquette
With wires jutting out from arms

I'll never look at you again
If it's only a mirror in the end
And if there's no one after us
We'll turn the lights out when we leave

I'll never look at you again
If it's, it's only, it's only, it's only a mirror
I'll never look at you again
It's only, it's only a mirror

We're guilty till we die, I'll never look at you again
We're guilty till we die, I'll never look
We're guilty till we die, I'll never look at you again
We're guilty till we die, I'll never look at you till we die

Siphon the Ivory with the tusk, we're guilty till we die
We only bleed when the knives are drawn Vultures pick the meat from the bones, we're guilty till we die
We only love when the camera's on

If it starts to feel then we'll just shut it off again
We won't convince the jury, we're guilty till we die
If it starts to feel then we'll just shut it off again
We won't convince the jury, we're guilty till we die

Do not adjust the contrast, my love, our days are numbered

We'll remain guilty till our hearts give in and pull us under
Do not adjust the contrast, my love, our days are numbered
We'll remain guilty till our hearts give in and pull us
under

[Incomprehensible]
Till we die [Incomprehensible]

We left our corpses on the beach
Untouched and slightly out of reach
We paint the walls with our dreams
We'll turn the lights out when we leave

We left our corpses on the beach
Untouched and slightly out of reach
We paint the walls with our dreams
We'll turn the lights out when we leave
