Somewhere between hello and goodbye
Stuck in the middle of nowhere
Wanting to live but waiting to die
Holding on and on and on

No one to blame and no one to accuse
Nothing we could've done better
How can you win when there's so much to lose
I know, I know, yes I know

I should've seen it in your face
I should've felt it in your touch
I should've heard it in the words
That you didn't say much
But of all the clues I missed
I should've felt it in your kisses, lately baby
We were one, now that's all
Come undone

We're getting further away from the shore
Feeling the distance between us
I don't know if I should try anymore
Or just go, or just go, let it go, let it go

I should've seen it in your face
I should've felt it in your touch
I should've heard it in the words
That you didn't say much
But of all the clues I missed
I should've felt it in your kisses, lately baby
We were one, now that's all
Come undone

Sometimes the writing is there on the wall
But you just can't make out all the words
Sometimes the truth's right in front of you
But it's screaming too loud to be heard

I should've seen it in your face
I should've felt it in your touch
I should've heard it in the words

That you didn't say much
But of all the clues I missed
I should've felt it in your kisses, lately baby
We were one, now that's all
Come undone
