She brings the rain, she brings the pain
She likes to break the balance of life
She lies to me, she cries to me
She's an actress more than Marilyn
But things are getting clearer to me...

And when she cries, it's just a lie
How could you trust in all the moves she makes?
And when she stays, for another day
How could you trust in all the words she says?

When I wake up, it's a brain flood
I swear I'd never trust her again
When I'd see her walk, out of my door
I realized that I've been fired again
But things are getting clearer to me...

And when she cries, it's just a lie
How could you trust in all the moves she makes?
And when she stays, for another day
How could you trust in all the words she says?
