What am I suppose to do you left me standing here trying to recall what I ever did, what i ever did to you what am I suppose to do you left me lying here with memories tears on my face nothing left to say or do

When I've fallen I thought, thought you'd be there when I couldn't see the end I thought you'd be a friend when I felt I was confused I thought you'd be the truth, the truth

trying to recall what I ever did, what I ever said to you
