No one can say
How she caught my eyes
To this day
I don't know why

Oh well, her eyes
So much like diamonds
And her heart
So much like gold

I knew that I'd win her in time
When I felt her heart beat close to mine
And once in her arms
Then I knew anything I would do

Just for the love of a woman
Just for the love of a woman
I prayed that I'd never have to walk alone
I have a love of my own

I thank my stars
I found an angel
Never again
Will I walk alone

She brought a light
Into my heart
Like the brightest star
That's ever shone

Money and gold to a king
When you're alone, don't mean a thing
And once in her arms
Then I knew anything I would do

Just for the love of a woman
Just for the love of a woman
I prayed that I'd never have to walk alone
I have a love of my own

I could paint a masterpiece
I could walk through fire

I could shout it from the roof
From the smallest flame to a fire this love has grown

Just for the love of a woman
Money and gold mean nothin'
Never again will I have to walk alone
Since I have a love of my own
Now I have a love of my own

Just for the love of a woman
Just for the love of a woman
Just for the love of a woman

Love of my own, love of my own
I can't face this world all alone
Love of my own, love of my own
I can't face this world all alone

Love of my own, love of my own
I can't face this world all alone
Love of my own, love of my own
I can't face this world all alone

Love of my own, love of my own
I can't face this world all alone
