Rain *is* Falling

When I woke up this morning
The sun was up and the sky was very blue Without a warning, as I looked up My thoughts returned to you
The noise in the city made the children run And hide themselves away then thunder boomed and lightning filled the sky

Oooo, the rain is falling
oooo, the rain keeps on falling, falling will it wash away those lonely tears?

Looking from this window A thousand rivers running past my door standing on an island hoping for someone to come ashore

I can see it very clearly nothing needs to be changed til lightning strikes across the melting sky

oooo, the rain is falling....

With their brand new time transporter Maybe they thought I'd like to get away But with all great inventions and all their good intentions here i stay down on the corner where the sun once shined the people gathered round then scattered as the raindrops hit the ground oooo, the failing is falling....
