Truly Julie, in another day
You know it really isn't far away that I'm longing to be with you
You'll be waiting for another sun, but that's when things begin to come undone
And there's nothing that I can do There's sense that's running in the air, and that's the time that you should never dare Running away you can't pretend, up to the door and back again with me
I know
Running away it drives me wild, even someone who makes me mild like you
I know, I know
There's a place where everything is free and everyone is just like you and me like i've never seen before But i would never ever wanna go, to a place unless you told me so, then you said that you wanted more There's a sense that's running in the air and that's the time that you should never dare
Running away you can't pretend, up to the door and
back again with me
Running away it drives me wild, even someone who
makes me mild like you
I know, I know
Running away you can't pretend, up to the door and
back again with me
Running away it drives me wild, even someone who
makes me mild like you
I know, I know, I know
