We are, we are set on a mountain growing up.
Look around.
We are, we are set on a mountain growing up.
You mailed away all your troubles just today.
You're open wide, catch the sweetest falling.
Keep running for something greater, something more.
You made it new, sing a song tuned to you.
We are, we are set on a mountain growing up.
Look around.
We are, we are set on a mountain growing up.
And you shut the door.
Lay yourself on the floor.
That's how you know.
That's when you know that you're home.
We are, we are set on a mountain growing up.
Look around.
We are, we are set on a mountain growing up.
On clouded nights you hope with all your might.
In fragile wings to carry your desire,
Still you believe on the stars and what you see.
And you believe you're on the brink of something.
And you shut the door.
Lay yourself on the floor.
That's how you know.
That's when you know that you're home.
