To stand where I stand
To see just where I want to be when I close my eyes, don't want to cry but fly like an angel high above the things that try to hold me down Still these thoughts are forming

I don't have much to give Just pockets full of memories of days when passing through these opportunities that still knock at my soul dreams that I thought I had forgot

Now time tells Then I'll know who it holds now let go
Reach deep down into yourself
Find a place that's yours
When you need it, remember where it lives
Reach deep down into yourself
Find a place that's yours
When you need it, remember where it lives
