It's been a while since I've tried
To write a song about a girl
So here it goes I write with clumsy words

I see the sparks that fly are reasons to consider Yet the facts are cold and we've both moved on
But let me tell you darling
I still have some feelings too

So if you could make this easier on me, would you
And if I can't help myself from falling again for you for you

Here we go around one more time again
Before you go back then to sweet memories
Of summers spent chasing the lights
Here we go around one more time again
Before you go
To sweet memories of summers spent chasing the lights,
Oh chasing a girl

I get to thinking reminiscing
I see myself there in that small town
The only thing that's worth remembering
I wrote our names in the snow there
Still frozen in my mind
Where pages lay unwritten
I guess just somethings are better left in time

So if you could make this easier on me, would you
And if I can't help myself from falling again for you for
you

Here we go around one more time again
Before you go back then to sweet memories
Of summers spent chasing the lights
Here we go around one more time again
Before you go
To sweet memories of summers spent chasing the
lights,
Oh chasing a girl
