Oh, all my boxes of collectable insects I've displayed proud in my room
I told my sister, to never let My mother throw them out

They are my gift To her child
A reminder Of the colour
Of the love
And the crime That my aimless direction Was directed to strike

Flies and locusts, I dressed as monarchs Sit in thrones in a kingdom of boxes I shovelled their guts out, trampled their corpses
And dragged their bodies with oxen

And I left The court house Under phantom guide
Of the crescent
Of the lord And his lions That face toward, (to each other)
To corner the world

Gaps between, the gaps I slipped through Endless chasms and moats of kingdoms I hid in the bracken, I listened and acted I tore the flesh from the bitch on the throne
I

was fucking bulimic to words of jesus Fucking gospel from science reluctants
I fell in the gaps, the gaps between and No one ever told me so

Social dissonance, beds of bracken trials and judgements, science
reluctants
reluctants
Forced dementia, walls of water Girt by piss, the waves hit

Ocean spoke to me
We'll sail together, you'll be deck, I'm here beneath you Human spoke to sea
Human spoke to sea
I'll be your teacher, if you send a wave to drown us Ocean spoke to me

So young, depressed and inflammable
For as long as I've been living I hated something above my height Fathers, Monarchs or Government, so I stole From innocuous street vendors I felt like I deserved it all I needed worth between my hands
To
feel what worth felt like, at all

As leave in chains so petrified I've
never liked the sea Reflecting grinds of unjust woes
As ocean froth so foreign cleanses me
As I scratch away the face Of monarchs on new currency
I'd snap this worthless coin in half And drag the ragged edge to die

I woke from dreams about my life
My Mother's smile and Father's fight
A
lack of sympathy for my fellow man
In this boat I can finally

Grieve
Of my fate
Of the life I'll waste
And the gaps though the system that I fell I
love the world I live in but I hate the country I've left I'll change you Australia
or I'll leave again with a rope around my neck Oh I can be brilliant and oh I can change Oh I'd love to burn the union jack and never grieve again
To

As leave in chains so petrified
I've
never liked the sea
As ocean froth so
foreign cleanses me
As I scratch away the face
currency
I woke from dreams about my life

Grieve
Of my fate
Of the life I'll waste

but I hate the country I've left I'll change you
Australia
Oh I can be
brilliant
and oh I can change
and never grieve again
