I know why you dress in black
And shine with your shadow
You play your sad song for everyone
I'll sit back and wait until you're done

All this false cleaning turns you into something black So tell them they're wrong with your contrast You say promises are gone You'd rather paint your face black than trust a smile that won't last Promises are gone

This world is not pure and neither are you Stay dance with your shadow, you look for signs (?) that ripped it down
I watch and realize you're the only one sound.

Stop pretending
that this place inside doesn't hurt
Stop pretending
Cause is does
