"Victory Rock"

With big guns and big ambitions
Never ending arguments
When is your ammunition spent
With big guns you load and shoot me down
With all those pretty words you thought out
Ready to recent

I hope time will change your heart
I'll be coming against your words
With something inside of me
Time will change your heart
I will be waiting at the doorstep of love
The doors wide open for you to see

We laugh about it and we dwell over it
But time flies by, and I'm getting anxious Forgive me for pushing you
I know you have your own legs to walk with
I guess it's because to me it's so precious

I hope time will change your heart...

When there's not much left to say
Words better left unspoken
Let me hear from you
When your heart is broken

I'll wait for you
