

Blindside

"Walking Home"

Visit "Walking Home" on MotoLyrics.com please just take one step closer for it is me who hasn't let You keep me warm once marked my heart, each letter with pride once marked my heart, the name of the storm break my heart again and i'll hold You close i'll break in parts again so You can hold me close every word is an understatement and every exaggeration is true for this is walking home so this is just the beginning all over again so this is just what keeps me alive so it says You died and we still hated You so it says You died to keep us alive break out hearts again and we'll hold You close i'll break in parts again so You can hold me close

every word is an understatement
and every exaggeration is true
for this is walking home
i'll try this time to remember every exaggeration is true can a revolution be at hand just be walking home?

this is walking home now love can crush the hardest stone and God i am one
this is walking home now i'll always remember you gave a little be of home (called peace) to hold close to heart, this is longing home now and yes, i'm still longing to get there, still longing

(still they ask me) how can a man love someone so much?
he hasn't yet seen how a move loves a place so much
he hasn't yet seen

