Deep down in the very center of the inside of the world,
You can hear the electric highways, we can speak
imaginary words.

We'll see you where the memories go, all the dark
places, the herds gently grazing.

Looking up you find the bombs and bird shells sinking down all over you.

The water seems so clear in the morning, looking up
it's like a sky of blue.

We'll see you where the memories go, all the dark
places, the herds gently grazing.

I don't mind, no I don't mind the separating fault.

I don't mind, no I don't mind the separating fault.

Deep down in the very center of the inside of the world,
You can hear the electric highways, we can speak
imaginary words.

We'll see you where the memories go, all the dark
places, the herds gently grazing.

I don't mind, no I don't mind the separating fault.

I don't mind, no I don't mind the separating fault.
