"How Should I Know"

If it feels so right
Feels safe and sound
How can the sky be falling down?
If it's all good love
Two good hearts
How can we fall so far apart?

How can hearts be breaking in the middle of the night?
How can strings come unwound
when they held so tight on the ride down this road?
If it's time,
time to let go,
tell me how should I know?

If we're still on fire
The burn's still there
Why can't we find the flames anywhere?
If the sun still shines
No sign of rain
How come nothing's quite the same?

How can hearts be breaking in the middle of the night?
How can strings come unwound
when they held so tight on the ride down this road?
If it's time,
time to let go, tell me how should I know?

Can't help but think I'll find the answer is lying right there next to her

How can hearts be breaking in the middle of the night?
How can strings come unwound
when they held so tight?
Hearts break, that's how it goes.
Tie the strings, no and don't let go
'cause love tells me.

How can hearts be breaking in the middle of the night?
How can strings come unwound when they held so tight?

Hearts break, that's how it goes.
Tie the strings, no and don't let go
'cause love tells me. That's how I know.

Love tells me
