everything is over hanging over me loads my mind with burden sets my anguish free

beats my body gently without a single sound touches on my tender spots leaves me on the ground

fall is coming over me
i'm falling in it's arms
and there's no time for arguing
it hits without alarm

only darkness heads me when days are closing in and gone are mother fairgirl with summer on her chin ease a little lightness fades right into trap and smiles of my confusion would self pick up the tap
