The long summer
Has gone
The autumn leaves
Start to fall

Yesterday, I was touched by the breath of winter
His cold fingers searched for my heart
But in my heart I felt the warmth of this summer
So the first snowflakes melted away

The long summer
Has gone
The autumn leaves
Start to fall

I felt the world hold its breath and everything turned slower
All was silent, softened by the snow
And the world is going to sleep now in a freezing white coat
But I know that I will see its rebirth

The long summer
Has gone
The autumn leaves
Start to fall

Silently
The world's breath is slow
Silently
The first snowflakes fall

Fall silently
The world's breath, the world's breath
The world's breath is slow
(Silently)
Silently
The first snowflakes fall
(Silently)
