Yes well this time I thought it was the end
But you changed my mind again
Thoughts run through my head
All these things I thought were dead
And there are things you can't erase
But I guess life is just that way
There's a bad in things that you hold on to

There's not much I can say
'Cos I can't control it and
When you watch me with those eyes
Inside I'm exploding
And no, no, there's not much that I can do

And it took time for me to see
The potential in you and me
I didn't think that I could feel the way I once did
It's funny how quickly feelings change
Over silly little things
I can hate you then turn around to love you

There's not much I can say
'Cos I can't control it and
When you watch me with those eyes
Inside I'm exploding
And no, no, there's not much that I can do

Well my feelings went away
But I'm sitting here today
With that same ol' tingle running through my veins
And sure you caused me pain
And nearly drove me insane
But all those memories are slowly fading away
When you look at me and tell me that you mean every word you say

There's not much I can say
'Cos I can't control it and
When you watch me with those eyes
Inside I'm exploding
And no, no, there's not much that I can do

There's not much I can say
'Cos I can't control it
And when you watch me with those eyes
Inside I'm exploding
And no, no, there's not much that I can do
